Seminar: Holistic Missions and Community Development from an African Perspective
Seminar: Holistic Missions and Community Development from an African Perspective

28 December, 3:30-4:30pm
Embassy Suites Hotel, Laurel Ballroom
Seminar by Victor Obeng
We Are All In This Together
Objectives of the Seminar

We will discuss from an African perspective:

- What good partnership in these kinds of mission looks like and what they mean or otherwise.
- The importance of people coming on mission being willing to submit and learn from the hosts.
- Seeing people as people and not as ‘projects’.
- Learn to help people groups to be and not be looked on with pity as looking through the lens of money and material things only.
- Discuss and reflect together Mission partnership on equal terms.

- There will be a case study on Ghana where a young graduate is ‘enskinned’ as a ‘development chief’ not because of material wealth.
What is “Holistic Mission”?
What is Holistic (Wholistic) Missions?

• Holistic Mission – is described as going beyond just ‘evangelism’ or ‘discipleship’ but includes real partnership with people on ground to bring deep incarnational gospel transformation in the lives of the people being reached
What is Community Development?

• Community Development (community service kinds of mission) also means doing advocacy and deep theological reflection with the people groups being reached.
Holistic Missions

- Mission arises from the heart of God Himself and is communicated from his heart to ours. Mission is the global outreach of the global people of a global God.” - John Stott
- “History has shown that mission is always moving from a vital centre of Christian life to places where Christians are few or marginal. Matthew 28:18.
- Mission is now from everywhere to everywhere
- John Mbiti said “Christianity is like a beggar seeking food to eat and cloths to wear from any place he goes to”
Holistic Missions

- Get out of your culture and you will see how your culture has influenced your Christianity...

- We are conditioned by “what we think we know” and “What we know”. We ought to be careful about “what we think we know”

- Andrew Walls says the story of Christianity across twenty centuries has been serial.
  - “Its centre of gravity moves from place to place. No one Church or place or culture owns it. At different times different peoples and places have become its heartlands, its chief representatives. Then the baton passes on to others.”
Christianity and Transformational development

• ‘Development’ began to be used in 1756 as a term describing the desire to improve people
• Religion and spirituality had no place in Western ideas of development
• Christianity sees that focusing only on economic, cultural, environmental, social is inadequate.
• To make it a Transformational Development spirituality must be part
Community Development

• ‘Poor’ is a relative term as it relates to development
• We need to place ourselves in the context of those with whom we want to work.
Community Development

• A “human-need” focus leads to a problem solving approach with a negative focus.
• We need to see potentials not problems
• People are not capital nor resources
• The “I am here to do something for them” mentality must be checked
• It must be cooperative.
In the humility of our heart and attitude we go…..

- Self imposed weakness
- Sacrificial love
- Spirituality
- Spirit led and spirit filled
Case Study: STICS

- STICS – Short Term Involvement in Community Service
- Recent graduates commit their one-year term of national service to live & work as missionaries in rural communities.
- They teach in schools, preach the gospel, work with community leaders, and other things to bring holistic transformation
As a result of the positive impact STICS missionaries are having in a community known as Zua, near Walewale in the Northern Region, its Chief and people enskinned one of the STICS missionaries, Clement Ulzin.

Clement is a graduate of University of Ghana, serving in their community as a Development Chief. The amazing part of this whole story is the fact that Zua is a predominantly Muslim community which doesn’t even have a single Church.
Case Study

Young graduate Clement Ulzan ‘enskinned’ as a ‘development chief’ in Zua, West Mamprusi District in the Northern Region of Ghana not because of material wealth.
